VOL. 59—NO. 1

Long Ago Friends In Fond Memory

IF YOU READ the words in the date line on today's issue, you will note at the end of the line the words, "VOL. 59—NO. 1."

To those who are not interested, the words will have no significance; even some who appreciate the paper will not understand the full significance, and it is for them we are giving this explanation: The truth there conveyed is that the issue before you is a number one of a new volume.

A fund of $2,000 has been subscribed, and shares were issued at $50 per share. Three men who shared with their cash in that re-birth are still living. Thus it is fitting that we here give recognition to those who live, and to those who have gone hence. Call the roll of those who institution, it passed into private hands. In April, 1883, the present owner came into control—which will be fifty-seven years next month.

There was a lapse of this ownership, which need not be here enlarged upon, extending from August, 1897, till March, 1905. (During that time the paper rested in a state of inanimation.) Upon the resumption of this present ownership, to make a definite starting point, the first issue was made "VOL. 12—NO. 1," and the date was March 23, 1905.

From that date to this moment, few issues have been omitted—and have relatively few have been late in reaching the mails.

How did it come about that the paper was given a new start?

On the streets a few minutes ago we met one of the spirits which was responsible for the resumption of this present life. J. Ewell Brannen, now a sort of aging friend who lives at Stilton, sat on the court house bench as we ruminated together about things that were responsible for this new beginning. Some of our readers (very few of them, to be sure) will tell the circumstances; others may be interested.

On that day in March, 1905, when the new existence began—the re-birth, you might say—there were eighteen friends backing the institution with their good will and cash.

Fine For Pembroke!

That was a fine thing the voters of Pembroke did Tuesday when they went into open conference and re-elected Frank Miller mayor. It was fine for Frank, and fine for Pembroke.

It was only a few short months ago that Frank had the blues when some sort of political maneuvering had left him out of a position to which he aspired. For a couple of days he had been bowed, and he talked of shaking the dust from his feet and going elsewhere to start life anew. We are glad he didn't go, and glad the people of his community have given him the endorsement he deserved. To be sure, this recent event doesn't mean that everything will be roses from now hereafter. We'd bet a horse that before the end of his term, Frank will be fretted again—but he can get ruffled the quickest and cool off the quickest of any man we know. And he's a bundle of energy and resourcefulness, with public activity and welfare as his long suit.

We're glad Frank has again been given endorsement!

Who For Governor?

AS A SORT of trial balloon, the Atlanta Journal last Sunday sent out a front-page feeler of Georgia's political pulse.

Briefly, the feeler mentioned the names of a large number of Georgia citizens who might reasonably be expected to attract some political following in a campaign for the governorship. The intention, it was explained, was that readers of the paper should insert the name of their choice and mail in a secret—or open—ballot to the paper. This feeler, we are led to believe, is to be released from time to time as a sort of index to the strength of those voted for. (Billed down to find out, however, we do not expect any definite results to come.)

The one point which comes close to our interest in the matter, is that among the prospects listed were three of our newspaper friends—Milton Beckermann, from Claxton; Walter Harrison, from Millen, and Ed Methvin, from Eastman. The Times is writing our coupons for all three of these friends with the understanding that when elected, they will divide the time equally in such manner as may be satisfactory to them.

What we like about all three of these fellows is that they do not appear to have the sense of caution—fence-straddling, if you please—which is prevalent among prospective candidates. Now, we'd dislike for either of our newspaper friends to suffer physical harm for lack of caution—but we have full confidence that Beckermann, Harrison and Methvin are not afraid to stand for what they believe, and that they stand up in the open in a way that nobody need doubt.

Board Members Meet On Eve of GEA Session

The Georgia Association of School Superintendents, board members and trustees will hold their sessions in Atlanta on March 22-23, on the eve of the annual convention of the Georgia Education Association, president William S. Smith has announced.

The association, which represents the school heads in the 159 Georgia counties and the various independent systems as well as the members of the county and independent school boards and the various trustees, is expecting to expand the scope of its activities this year. Its members are planning to make a vigorous drive for activation of the Minimum Foundation Program.

Featured speaker at the session will be Dr. C. O. Fitzwater, assistant director of Rural Education of the National Education Association. One of the significant discussions on the program is on the subject, "The Responsibility of Local Communities in Providing an Adequate Program of Education." The meeting also will hear a report by State School Superintendent M. D. Collins.

Farm Bureau

Activities

The Sinkhole Farm Bureau started the cotton and corn contests program again in Bulloch county at their meeting Thursday night. Those entering the corn contest voted to put up $5 each to be used as prize money and to divide it between the two highest producers. Since only seven members enrolled in the corn contest at that time, they voted to make the prize $20 and $15 for the community and then to compete in county and state contests.

Those entering the corn contest were Jim H. Strickland, Delmas Rushing, H. B. Bowen, Wilton Rushing, H. H. Godbee, E. L. Anderson and L. S. Anderson. Other members who enrolled later. This same group enrolled in the cotton contest and added John M. Strickland, J. V. Anderson and Hughlin Brown. They will plant five acres or more cotton for the contest to meet state regulations in the state-five-acre contest.

Several from Wadsworth asked for telephones at their meeting Wednesday night. Joe Hodges, M. M. Rushing, Otis Groover, L. F. Martin, Ivy Wyman, D. A. Tanner's store, Carl Anderson and W. H. Anderson were the ones from that community wanting to work out a line with the Statesboro Telephone Company. Indications are the line can be extended to about Lee Hugh Hagan's store and several from that area will tie on.

Hospitalization for Farm Bureau members was discussed at Denmark Tuesday night. C. D. DeLoach presented the following information, called for a show of hands of those interested in the group program and found that more than fifty per cent of the membership wanted to procure the insurance this fall when renewing their Farm Bureau membership.

Denmark and Wadsworth served "free" suppers, barbecue, and the Sinkhole group had a covered dish supper.

Navy Club Exhibits

Nazi Captured U-Boat

The Navy Club of U. S. A. will have an exhibition in Statesboro of a German midshipman submarine on Monday, March 20th. This exhibit is mounted on a large trailer and will be parked on East Main street across from the court house and open between the hours of 10 a. m. and 10 p. m. There is no admission charge, however voluntary donations are gratefully accepted, and funds so raised help the Navy Club of U. S. A. in its work for extensive welfare and rehabilitation program.

The midshipman submarine was known in Germany as the "Seehund," and was one of the secret weapons the Nazis developed in their futile efforts to conquer the world. The Seehund is 59 feet long, and weighs twenty-one tons, carrying two full-sized torpedoes, each being 22 feet long. The submarine, having a speed of 8 knots on the surface, and 4 knots submerged, was operated by two men.

IN MEMORIAM

HENRY DEAL

who died three years ago, March 19, 1947.

In the graveyard softly sleeping, Where the flowers softly wave, There lies one we love so dearly, In a lonely silent grave. While the evening shadows gather, After all the work is through, We can't keep our eyes from straying To that peaceful slumbering youth. Yes, we love you, oh! so much, And although your lips are stilled, We will keep our thoughts from straying To you whom we loved so well. WIFE AND CHILDREN.

"C Swift's Blenn"

say tobacco men
"makes brighter leaf!"

Cigarette manufacturers prefer, and bid higher, for bright, smooth leaf. That is the quality tobacco that BLENN, Swift's specialized crop maker, helps you produce. This statement is backed up by the experience of successful growers of profitable tobacco.

For instance, J. L. Parker, Colerain, N. C., has used Swift's Blenn tobacco for 18 years. He has used BLENN exclusively since it was introduced by Swift. He says: "BLENN has always made a good crop for me. It not only raises quantity, but produces the quality that cigarette manufacturers prefer."

And BLENN is now made even better. A new process which combines complete mechanical mixing with complete chemical processing has been developed by Swift's plant food research scientists.

This makes New Process BLENN especially valuable for tobacco growers because it is so uniform in four important ways: 1) uniform blending, mixing, curing; 2) uniform freedom from caking, lumping, bridging; 3) uniform distribution through your machines; 4) uniform feeding of your tobacco plants.

To give your tobacco the growth elements needed for higher-yielding, higher-grading leaf, use BLENN, Swift's specialized crop maker. Order early this year from your Authorized Swift Agent.
